FRUIT FOR HOSPITAL.

The Woman's Hospital Aid society received a liberal donation of fruit yesterday for the hospital from a farmer, who had more fruit on his farm than he and his family had any use for. It is a fact that there is an abundance of good apples and peaches going to waste throughout the county and the Aid society wishes to make it known that this fruit would be gladly received at Passavant hospital. The members of the society will arrange in any way to get the fruit if they are notified that it can be had. If the donor cannot deliver it at the hospital, he can notify the hospital by telephone and arrangements will be made to have it delivered. Persons wishing to contribute fruit put up in jars will not be asked to donate the jars, but only the fruit, as empty jars will be given them at the time the fruit is delivered.

GOOD CORN SAMPLE.

A sample of the good corn on Morgan county land is shown at the Myers National Bank. M. P. Dunlap made a visit to his farm recently and brought back an ear taken from field planted in good ground. The ear is well filled, of good size and is as near perfect as is usually seen. No doubt there will be a great yield from that field of new ground.

FRANKLIN PICNIC

Large Crowd in Attendance at the Annual Chicken Fry of the Sacred Heart Church—List of Events and Winners.

The second annual chicken fry of the Sacred Heart church of Franklin was held Thursday and was most successful in every way. There was an unusually large crowd, the condition of the roads making it possible for visitors to come long distances via automobiles. The committee of the day had everything so arranged that there was not a dull moment during the entire program.

Three hundred chickens had been fried for the occasion, under the management of William Cleary, whose ability along this line is well known. It is estimated that over 1,000 people were fed and every chicken, together with all the trimmings, were consumed by the hungry people. One hundred and fifty gallons of ice cream were also eaten and many more good things could have been sold, if ample provisions had been made.

Malloy brothers of Jacksonville furnished music during the entire day and the various events found eager competitors. A merry-go-round was also a feature greatly enjoyed by the children especially, and several moving picture shows were largely patronized.

Dennis Whalen and Jerry Ryan were the chairmen of the committee in charge of the day and others who assisted were Joseph Bergsneider, Frank Jones, Samuel Lukeman, T. J. Luby, Frank Ryan, Anton Ritter, Joseph Sevier, W. A. Ryan, Frank Shanley, Charles Ryah and Thomas Ryan. There were others who helped during the day and about 25 ladies waited on the tables and all are to be praised for the part they took. Messrs. Daniel Kinney, A. J. Lukeman and Charles Watts were in charge of the various events on the program.

The following is a list of the events and the winners: Best draft colt under 1 year—First, C. A. Armstrong; second, James H. Roberts.

Tug-of-war, the Sacred Heart church vs. The World—Won by the church. There were ten men on each side.

One of the most exciting events of the program was the ball game between Waverly and Murrayville. It was played on the town diamond and was witnessed by a large crowd. Waverly won by a score of 2 to 1 and those who saw the contest pronounced it one of the best games ever played at Franklin. The batteries for Waverly were Hassler and Brown; for Murrayville, Fanning and Doyle.

The proceeds of the picnic were most gratifying and will be used for church purposes.

Among those who attended the picnic from Jacksonville were the following: Will Clerihan, James F. Walsh, Misses Grace Black and Ella Kershaw, W. T. Deaugh, Lee, Arthur and Charles Harmon, Carl Lukeman, Misses Marie, Piepenbrink, Grace Leary and Anna Mackay.

AT THE GRAND TONIGHT.

Among the several well-known principals supporting the popular star, Henry Woodruff, whom Mort H. Singer will present at "The Prince of Tonight" is Miss Vera Stanley, the clever prima donna who last season scored an individual triumph in Henry W. Savage's operatic offering, "The Prince of Pilsen."

Miss Stanley is a Cincinnati girl, who upon her graduation from the famous Vassar college, accepted the advice of her tutors and pursued the study of music in Italy. Her soprano voice is delightful to hear and in "The Prince of Tonight" she has ample opportunity for displaying her marvelous singing ability.

LINEMAN'S RELEASED.

J. T. Kennedy, the lineman, who was arrested on suspicion of being an accomplice in the burglary of the Burlington station, was released yesterday. Mr. Kennedy maintained his innocence throughout and his conduct has been such as to convince the authorities that he was not the guilty party.

The mystery box, which consisted of various questions being submitted and asked, relative to the missionary work, proved most helpful. Mrs. George Flagg also gave a very interesting account of the way the missionary society at Clinton worked.

NEW HOTEL RUMOR

John Cherry May Use Material in Ayers Bank Building For New Edifice on East State Street—Hotel on European Plan.

A rumor was circulated yesterday to the effect that John Cherry, building the old Ayers Bank Building of the Stewart Construction company of St. Louis and that he would have it moved to the vacant lot on East State street just east of the grocery store of Louis Piepenbrink and there using the material from the structure as a good beginning start the erection of a handsome hotel building. Mr. Cherry was asked regarding the matter and stated that as yet he had entered into no deal with the St. Louis company but that the matter was under consideration. He said, however, that in all probability the transaction would be made but as nothing definite had yet been done he had little to say.

If the deal is put through it is Mr. Cherry's intention to have the building torn down and moved block by block to the lot on East State street and there erected. The front of the building as it now stands would then be made to face the Burlington depot and additions to the building would be made on the sides. Mr. Cherry's plan would be to make a building 60x80 on the ground and to have it put up in first class style. He believes that there are good prospects for a splendid hotel business, conducted on the European plan, at that location, being near the depots and the hospitals. Such a building would be an ornament to East State street, as the Cherry flat is to West State street, and would stand as another example of Mr. Cherry's faith in Jacksonville and his interest in the upbuilding of the business life of the city.

ROOSEVELT WRITES

FORMER PRESIDENT TELLS OF TESTIMONY BEFORE STEEL COMMITTEE.

Avers That There Was Nothing New in Statement Given—All Acts and Facts About His Administration Open to the Public—Says His Action Saved Country From Panic.

New York, Aug. 17.—Ex-President Roosevelt has an article on "The Steel Corporation and the Panic of 1907" in the Outlook appearing to day. Mr. Roosevelt discusses his recent appearance before the congressional committee investigating the steel corporation, repeating the written statement he then presented and dealing with some of the lines of inquiry and his responses. He says:

On Saturday, Aug. 5, in compliance with the request of the chairman of the congressional committee investigating the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company by the steel corporation, I appeared before that body. I had nothing new to which to testify. There was not a fact of the slightest importance or of the slightest bearing upon my action which was not already known, and which had not been known from their time I dated; and incidentally I may mention that this is also true as regards Panama, the dealings of my administration with the sugar trust or any other trust, and as to any other action of my administration. Nobody need feel either concern or hope as to whether anything done by my administration will be "discovered" for the excellent reason that there is nothing that was hidden.

"I made to the committee the statement which follows. Several questions were then asked by different members of the committee. Most of these questions dealt with matters not of sufficient moment to warrant allusion to them here. Many of them were as to what my belief was concerning the motives of the steel corporation people in acquiring the Tennessee Coal & Iron company's property; to which of course, my answer was that it was not my business and neither was it in my power to search the hidden domain of motive, and that my action was conditioned, not upon what I believed to be the motives actuating the steel corporation, but upon my belief that the action which they proposed was taking would be enormous to the benefit of the community at large at that particular moment. Whether the chief motive for their action was a desire to absorb the Tennessee Coal & Iron company, or whether their chief motive was to save the threatened New York firm from failure, and thereby stop the panic, was of no concern to me.

That both motives were in their minds I thought possible, and now think possible. What was the predominant motive was of no consequence. My concern was that the action should be taken and the situation saved in the interest of people of the United States. Most individuals have short memories, and the events in question took place nearly four years ago; but if any one will look back and think of the matter over seriously and in good faith, he will understand that it was not a question of saving any bank or trust company from failure; the question was of saving the plain people, the common people, in all parts of the U. S. from dreadful misery and suffering; and this was what my action did.

"One of the questions put to me indicated disbelief, or, to be more accurate, perhaps I should say that it was meant to be understood as indicating disbelief, that the action taken was really efficient in stopping the panic. At the time, and for some months after the panic had been stopped no man would have ventured to express such disbelief unless prepared to be greeted with derision by every human being who knew and thing whatever of the actual facts. The question is not to be treated seriously, for it cannot be so treated. The action taken was, in my judgment, the only action that could stop the panic, and it most certainly was of enormous, and in all human probability of decisive, influence in actually stopping it."

"Certain other questions related to the alleged fact that during the past four years the ore lands formerly owned by the Tennessee Coal and Iron company have been developed and until they are of enormous importance as to give the Steel Corporation nearly complete control of the sources of the raw material. Whether or not this is so has no bearing upon the action taken four years ago. The purchase as made did not by itself one way or the other, affect the status of the Steel Corporation so far as the Sherman Law was concerned; and this statement is not affected by consideration of what may not be a totally different state of affairs four years later. "I dealt with facts as they were, not with facts as they might or might not afterwards become. I believe that this covers every point of my consequence raised in the questions put to me after I had made my statement."

WHY WOMEN SUFFER

With Piles and How to Find a Lasting Cure.

Constipation is a most frequent cause of piles. That is why women suffer more often from piles than men. Indoor work and lack of exercise brings on the attacks.

Armstrong's drug store and druggists everywhere sell Hem-Roid, an internal tablet remedy for piles, on the understanding that you can have the money back if dissatisfied. $1 for a large bottle. Dr. Loenhardt Co., Station B., Buffalo, N. Y. Mail booklet on request.

RELIABLE TREATMENT FOR WHISKY OR BEER HABIT

Try It at Your Expense. Can you Ask More?—Can be Given Secretly.

We are so confident that Orrine will destroy the terrible craving for whiskey, beer and all intoxicants, that we want you to try it at our expense. Thousands of wives and mothers throughout the land, have by the aid of Orrine restored drinking husbands and sons to lives of sobriety, usefulness and happiness. We believe that Orrine will prove successful after all other means have failed, so we say to wives and mothers whose homes are blighted, because of the "curse of intemperance," don't become discouraged, even if you have tried other remedies without benefit. Try Orrine you try it at our expense, if it fails to produce results. We know that Orrine stands foremost as a reliable aid to help the drunkard. Messrs. Sullivan & Slauson, the well known druggists of Utica, N. Y. have been selling Orrine for a number of years. Read what they say: "During the past five or six years we've sold practically all the different cures for the liquor habit on the market, we've never yet found one that gave the entire satisfaction which Orrine has given."

We have several cases that have come to our attention where excellent results have been obtained by the use of Orrine. We are so convinced of its merits that we unhesitatingly recommend and guarantee it in all cases of the "Liquor Habit." Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1 secret treatment, a powder absolutely tasteless and odorless, given secretly in food or drink. Orrine No. 2, in pill form, is for those who desire to take voluntary treatment. Orrine costs only $1.00 a box. Write for Free Orrine Booklet (mailed in plain sealed envelope) to Orrine Co., Orrine Building Washington, D. C. Orrine is recommended and is for sale in this city by Armstrong's Drug Store.

TALK ABOUT OIL.

Drilling has begun on the William Petefish farm, two miles west of Lakeview, and the drill is down some thirty feet. Boring for oil in the "northern region" is purely experimental, and it is probable that a number of such wells will be sunk. It is understood that some 800 acres of land in that vicinity that had been leased to Messrs. Curtis and Leeper, has been subleased to F. M. Alken of Toledo, Ohio, who is sinking the well on the Petefish premises.

A distance of 65 feet has been reached in the well on the M. F. Dunlap farm. Sand has been found at that depth and there is also a showing of gas. The showing of gas does not carry much significance, however, as surface gas is rarely utilized for any purpose. The sand brought to the surface is almost identical with that found in the Indiana beds, where oil abounds in great quantities. No such a log has been found in the well sunk around here so the outcome of the boring will be watched with much interest by the drillers.

Mr. Johnson, who came from the Robinson field to supervise the oil wells, has been busy the past few days devising means to get rid of the water, which still finds its way into the various pipings. Mr. Johnson has been up against such a proposition before and has already displayed his ability to cope with the difficulty. The device used for cleaning the wells from water, which is operated by being fastened back of a wagon, has been used to good effect.

There has been a great scarcity of oil men in the city the past few days, but all are keeping in touch with the situation. They are all ready to come back as soon as "more oil" is discovered. Mr. Curtis is expected in the city before the week is over.

Some are of the opinion that the oil men are about ready to quit, at least for a season, but such is not the tactics of promoters. They have already sunk about $35,000 in Morgan county and are willing to double that amount to give the field a thorough test. Over in Indiana the oil men labored for several months in one region and $95,000 was sunk before a rich flow of oil was discovered. The find was indeed a rich one, and a single well produced over 600 barrels per day. This well was sold to a company for $150,000 and so goes the life of oil prospecting. There are many fields over the country that are similar to the one in Indiana and it is apparent that big risks are taken.

While the gas situation is rather quiet at present the Egyptian Gas company, which has the right of pumping gas into Jacksonville, has been studying out ways and means of procedure. A deal has already been closed with the Jacksonville Packing company and equipment will be installed so that the plant can use gas entirely for heating purposes. The company may perhaps find time to pipe gas into a few houses in the vicinity of the packing company and the talk is quite prevalent among the farmers relative to lighting their homes with the fluid.

MORE SERIOUS CHARGE

J. H. Reese, Supposed "Drug Fakir," Rearrested on State Warrant—Order Received From New York Company to Hold Him Until Representative Arrives.

J. H. Reese, the supposed "drug fakir," who was arrested in this city Wednesday on suspicion of more serious charges to confront Thursday, a telegram was received Thursday morning from the Grato Woodward company of New York, which he was supposed to represent, asking the officers to hold the man until a representative from their firm could come and identify him. The telegram stated that the firm had been on the lookout for years for a man, who was misrepresenting himself as their agent and who had been swindling druggists far and wide. The message also stated that the man had been arrested several times, but had escaped the officers and the company offered a reward of $500 for his arrest and conviction.

Now in County Jail.

The drug salesman spent a very restless night in the city prison and Thursday morning was taken before Squire Dyer to answer to the charge of peddling without a city license. To this he pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and costs. He was at once rearrested on a state's warrant, sworn out by W. T. Reaugh, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses and of working the bunco game. The salesman had succeeded in getting an order for $2 worth of corn cure from Mr. Reaugh as he had done other shoe dealers in the city. He was placed under a bond of $150 and his trial was set for Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock in Squire Coons' court. Failing to give bond he was committed to the county jail.

Made Plea For Release.

The prisoner, it seems, employed very means possible to be freed from the custody of the law. He used many different arguments in an effort to persuade Chief Estaque of his innocence and accused the officer of treating him most unjustly. In the court room, he appealed to the emotions of Squire Coons and with tears in his eyes asked that he might be freed so that he could go home to his wife and children. Through the entire proceedings he has been greatly excited and has showed much uneasiness.

In other places where he has been, the salesman has evidently gone under different names. Silas Hexter, druggist at Ashland, gave the man an order for $3 worth of goods this week and the name signed to the contract was that of J. D. Frank. In other cities he has done business under the name of Bowers.

Druggists Are Warned.

As stated in the Journal of Wednesday, druggists have been warned against certain drug fakirs, with contract practically the same as that used by Mr. Reese in this city. This warning was sounded through the columns of "N. A. R. D. Notes," the Journal of the National Association of Retail Druggists, and was as follows:

"Advice from druggists in southern Illinois and southern Indiana are to the effect that the 'Dunlap corn cure' is again at it. This slippery individual and his methods have been exposed in Notes several times in the past and it is hoped that no N. A. R. D. member has been taken in by him. He pretends to be an agent for Dunlap's Corn Cure and his printed contract is time is signed J. T. Dunlap, Pittsburg. He offers to sell from house to house and to divide profits of sales among the druggists if they will give him a good sized order for cash. Reports would indicate that the repeated warnings of N. A. R. D. Notes have had their effect and no druggist would buy. If they did they would simply have a lot of worthless and fraudulent corn cure on hand and the agent has never yet 'divided' profits with any druggist. So beware of him if he should come your way.

"This party is supposed to be one, J. W. Bowers, but is better known as 'Dunlap,' the drug swindler. He has been arrested several times and once in July, 1908, he was fined $100 and $3,000. He has been arrested and attempted to bribe officers of the law to allow him to escape.

INJURED BY FALL.

A. B. Core, who resides at 508 South Prairie street, received a severe fall Thursday morning while doing some work at the residence of L. R. Fenfield on Diamond street. Mr. Core had set a ladder on a goods box and was intending to get on the roof of the porch to do some repair work. The porch is about 12 feet high and when Mr. Core was about to the top the box turned over and precipitated him to the ground. He struck on his head and back and received a severe shock by the fall. Dr. C. E. Cole was called and gave the necessary medical attention. No bones were found broken and after a short time the injured man walked to his home. Mr. Core is over 70 years of age.

WILL CELEBRATE IN BEARDSTOWN

Trades and Labor Assembly Accepts Invitation of River Town for Labor Day Observance—Special Train Provided.

The members of the Jacksonville Trades and Labor assembly will celebrate Labor day this year in Beardstown. The committee appointed recently by the assembly has made arrangements for special train service on that day. The committee is composed of M. D. Hefferen, F. G. Shannon, E. L. Brainer, James Rowan and Homer Howe.

The special train which will convey those who attend from this city will leave over the C. P. & St. L. at 7:45 and will make connection with the B. & O. E. W. at Virginia.

The train returning will leave Beardstown at 9:30 at night. A large delegation from Jacksonville is assured.

There are a number of attractive features to the program, which has been arranged for the day. First of all a large parade, in which 3,000 men are expected to be in line, will take place, and the Beardstown assembly promises to provide free watermelon to all who take part in this great street demonstration. In the afternoon an aquatic exhibition will take place on the river. This will include swimming and diving feats as well as motor boat races and a number of new stunts, all of which will be competitive. There will also be good speaking and all in all a great time is expected.

Trades and labor assemblies of other cities have also decided to celebrate at Beardstown, among which are Springfield, Pa., and Taylorville.

ELKS TO BEARDSTOWN

Members of B. P. O. E. Had Great Time in Cass County City—Visitors Given Royal Welcome—Wrecking Cars Not Needed.

Jacksonville Elks made a pilgrimage or more properly a flight to Beardstown Thursday evening where they were royally entertained by Cass county members of the order. The Jacksonville men made the trip in automobiles, the first one starting from the Elks headquarters at 4:55 o'clock and the last car going at 6:15 o'clock. All cars were furnished free by the owners and each was decorated with banners with this wording: "B. P. O. Elks, Jacksonville, No. 682."

The first car to leave was that of Dr. Allen M. King and the owner was at the wheel. This was termed the National Red Cross speed car and set the pace and led the way for the others. The passengers were H. K. Chenoweth, exalted ruler of Jacksonville lodge, Harrison King, Charles E. Dickson and Sprague Taylor of St. Louis. Mr. Chenoweth had a big bag of confetti and at every corner scattered a goodly quantity to show following car drivers which way to turn.

Postmaster Reeve with his passengers made up a party of four and they were dubbed "The conservative bunch, go early and come early." F. E. Farrell drove his Pierce Great Arrow car equipped as "Red Devil Wrecker No. 1." The paraphernalia included block and tackle, rope, jacks, spades, ice, can openers and first aid to the injured furnishings. "Wrecker No. 2" was J. G. Reynolds' "Merry Olds" and this car, manned by an undertaker, included in its equipment block and tackle, rope, embalming fluid, and "second aid to the injured furnishings."

Although such ample preparations were made to take care of maimed and disabled cars and Elks, every machine made the trip in good form and it was only a trifle past 7 o'clock when the last car had been parked in Beardstown. The Elks there had made elaborate preparations of good things to eat, took their guests to a show, escorted them around the town and extended them every possible courtesy. The festivities were concluded about 11 o'clock and then the Jacksonville cars, traveling at a safe distance apart, were started homeward. The expedition was an entirely successful and enjoyable one. The cars and their passengers who followed the King car were as listed herewith. F. E. Farrell and Byron Graff acted as the starters and the whole "stunt" was pulled off in good order.

CUT HORSES TAIL OFF.

The first part of the week some culprit entered the stall of "Harry M." the show horse of Arch Mains of Virginia, which he is exhibiting at the Schuyler county fair and cut the animal's tail off to within four inches of the bone. It is thought that some one was jealous of Mr. Mains' fine horse and did the trick so that his chances would be less in the prize contests. Mr. Mains took the Sweep Stake at the World's Fair at St. Louis with the horse.

SHOOTS SISTER ACCIDENTALLY

RINDA ROBERTSON, AGED 5, DIES FROM INJURY.

Seven-Year Old Son of Walter Robertson Finds Revolver in Automobile and While Playing With Sister Empty Contents in Abdomen of Playmate.

One of the most shocking accidents that has ever happened in the Prentice neighborhood occurred last night about 7 o'clock, when the children of Walter Robertson, found a 22-calibre revolver in an automobile and while playing with the gun, the brother shot the sister accidentally, the ball entering and passing through the abdomen. The child passed away after intense suffering, this (Friday) morning at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Robertson has a number of machines which he rents out and it was the custom of the children to use the automobiles for play-houses. The little boy Frank is 7 years of age and his sister, Rinda, age 5 years. It was while playing in the auto that they lifted up the seat and found the revolver. Like children they climbed down out of the machine and were playing nearby when the brother pulled the trigger of the gun, which happened to be pointing toward the sister. They were so close together that the ball went clear through the abdomen. It entered on the left side and came out on the right side. The mother hearing the shot ran to see what was the matter. As soon as the conditions were learned medical aid was summoned from Jacksonville and everything possible was done to relieve the child of its sufferings. The gun was so close to the little girl that the force of the bullet had literally riddled the entrails and little hopes were held out for her recovery.

The boy realized what he had done and cried bitterly. The shot rendered the little girl semi-unconscious.

Little Rinda was a beautiful child and was a favorite not only in the home, but in the community. So shocking and so sudden was the death that the parents are heart-broken over the loss of the little one. They will have the sincere sympathy of the entire community in their sad hour of deep bereavement.

Baby's Voice

Every woman's heart responds to the charm and sweetness of a baby's voice, because nature intended her for motherhood. But even the loving nature of a mother shrinks from the ordeal because such a time is regarded as a period of suffering and danger. Women who use Mother's Friend are saved much discomfort and suffering, and their systems, being thoroughly prepared by this great remedy, are in a healthy condition to meet the time with the least possible suffering and danger. Mother's Friend is recommended only for the relief and comfort of expectant mothers; it is in no sense a remedy for various ills, but its many years of success, and the thousands of endorsements received from women who have used it are a guarantee of the benefit to be derived from its use. This remedy does not accomplish wonders but simply assists nature to perfect its work. Mother's Friend allays nausea, prevents caking of the breasts, and in every way contributes to strong, healthy motherhood. Mother's Friend is sold at drug stores. GROWING ALFALFA

Farmers in Southern Part of County Are Successfully Raising New Crop.

The following concerning the raising of alfalfa by farmers living in the vicinity of Waverly will appear in the Waverly Journal to day:

George W. Dunseth has brought to the Waverly Journal office this week a large bunch of alfalfa, from the third cutting of the season. Mr. Dunseth has five acres of this profitable crop, which has netted an average of one and one-half tons per acre each cutting. There will be one more cutting, which will no doubt average as well as the others, making a total of six tons to the acre.

Since Mr. Dunseth brought this sample a number of other farmers have been interviewed. There has been more or less experimenting for the past 15 years, in some cases proving unsuccessful, but more and more proving that alfalfa can be successfully grown in this section, and will prove one of the most valuable crops. Several carloads of alfalfa hay, part of which was Illinois grown, were sold in Springfield this week, bringing the record price of $22 per ton. It will take very little figuring to show the profitability of such a crop, making such a yield as it does, and bringing such prices. This year it is returning from $100 to $150 per acre, and even a poor yield or much lower prices, would show it to be a money maker.

J. W. Luttrell was probably the first to attempt the growing of a small "patch" about 15 years ago. The immediate results were not eminently successful, but sufficiently so to convince Mr. Luttrell that it could be made a success. Mr. Luttrell now lives in town, having retired from active life on the farm, but is closely associated with his son-in-law, Ed Evans, retaining an interest in farm activities. Mr. Evans planted five acres ten years ago which grew successfully for six years, when he plowed it under and raised a bumper corn crop. He now has five acres and believes the crop to be a winner in Illinois.

Sherman Luttrell, son of J. W. Luttrell, at Clover Leaf farm, has also been growing alfalfa. He has five acres of corn this year which promises an excellent yield on land which has been producing about six tons of alfalfa annually for the five or six years preceding, having also cut one and one-half tons per acre in June of this year, before plowing for corn. Blue grass was beginning to take it, so he decided to break it and plant corn. Mr. Luttrell also has six or seven acres planted two years ago this month which has not proven as satisfactory as the first planting.

On the Judge J. Otis Humphrey farm eight miles southeast of town alfalfa growing has been carried out on a much larger scale and in most part successfully for the past several years, there being at one time as much as 140 acres. We were unable to get definite figures from the Humphrey farm. P. L. Shaver, who lives about a mile from this farm, has been experimenting with a one acre patch for five years, having inoculated it with soil from the Humphrey field. After the first year, Mr. Shaver made close to two tons to the cutting, until two years ago, when the hogs rooted it up. He replanted in April 1910, and cut it three times in the same summer, turning the hogs in on it again last fall. He planted again last spring, but the crop has not done so well this summer.

Jesse Bateman has also been growing the new crop, but not as extensively as some of the others.

Dr. N. J. Hughes planted three acres August 4th, which has come to an excellent stand, showing rapid growth, having at this time, two weeks after planting, put forth three leaves to the stock. Swift & Beatty planted four acres Tuesday, this week.

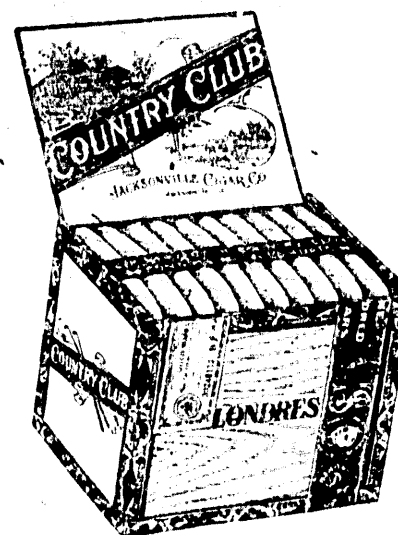

Sylvanus Scott and son Ed. Scott residing west of Franklin, have been growing alfalfa extensively for several years, and are very enthusiastic about the prospect of its becoming one of our staple crops.

There seems to be a difference of opinion among our local growers concerning the time and methods of planting, though none of these opinions squarely contradict each other, and in the main these alfalfa "trail blazers" are much of the same opinion. Some advise planting in the spring, while others think July and August is the best time. Mr. Dunseth has grown his without inoculating the soil, and his success has been pronounced, having planted in stubble, and Dr. Hughes likewise planted his field two weeks ago, without inoculating the soil. The other growers seem to lay more emphasis on inoculation, all agreeing however, that unless the ground must be in thoroughly good condition, and conditions favorable.

The State Farmers Institute has given out information as follows: "One requisite, at least on most soils of the state is inoculating with nitrogen gathering bacteria that use alfalfa as a host plant. This may be applied when the seed is being sown, if you use a drill for sowing, or it may be applied broadcast either immediately before, or immediately after sowing. In either instance when sowed broadcast it should be harrowed in at once. To secure the inoculating bacteria, take the surface soil from an established alfalfa field, or from under thrifty sweet clover plants and scatter this soil over the field, remember however, to harrow immediately after sowing the inoculating soil."

PLAN STATUE OF JEFF DAVIS. Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 17.—The Jefferson Davis Home association is planning the erection of a statue of the former president of the confederate states on an eminence in Todd county, overlooking the park which now marks the site of the Davis farm. It is expected that the next Kentucky legislature will be asked to make an appropriation for the purpose. The association also is working on a plan for a memorial highway to connect the Davis and the Lincoln homesteads.

STATE MILK SUPPLY

Board of Health Will Send Deputies Into Every County to Inspect Dairies.

Inspectors for the state board of health are paying unexpected visits to dairies in all parts of the state. The purpose is, of course, to find out conditions in dairies and to bring about any needed improvements. An inspector is to be sent into every county in the state and the aid of local authorities will be sought in getting at exact conditions.

These deputies have been given instructions as to the numerous phases to be considered in their investigation of the dairies and also with a general outline of what the state expects from the dairyman in the conduct of his business.

These propositions refer not only to the cleanliness of the man who is to do the milking, but also to means whereby the health of the cow may be protected and the milk after it has been taken from the animal, protected from contagion.

The following are some of the instructions given the inspectors as well as points to aid the dairyman in what constitutes the proper care of his business.

Keeping Barns Clean. See that the barns are kept clean and recently whitewashed. Dung and all refuse should be removed from the barn each day. Five hundred cubic feet of air space should be allowed for each cow in the barns.

No water closet, cess pool, inhabited room or workshop should be permitted to remain in a dairy stable. Chickens, dogs, sheep and goats should be excluded from the cow barns.

Every stable should be provided with water tight receptacles for refuse. Refuse should not be allowed to accumulate on the floor.

The Water Supply. No barn should be used for dairy cows which is not well lighted and ventilated and drained.

Drinking water from muddy ponds is unwholesome. Every barn should be provided with good drinking troughs which may be easily cleaned.

It is better for cows and better for their milk that the drinking water be warmed in very cold weather.

Keep your cows clean. The best dairyman have their cows curried once or twice daily. The udder should be washed with pure water before milking, while the hands of the milker should be absolutely clean.

Do not keep milk in the barn until several cows have been milked or until the cans or pails are filled. The milk of each cow should be hurried at once to the dairy house and cooled as quickly as possible. Milk standing in open vessels in stables take foul odor and is contaminated with dirt.

Killing the Germs. Rapid cooling is the secret of pure milk products. Germs grow rapidly in warm milk, but germ growth is checked when the milk is cooled. The quicker the cooling the purer the milk will be. Cool the milk at once after milking and keep it cool.

See that cans are clean and plugged. See that they are washed in hot water or steamed.

No milk should be sold from premises where there is scarlet fever, diphtheria, small pox or typhoid fever and no one shall be allowed to handle milk who is believed to be a sufferer from tuberculosis.

FAVORABLE TO PAMPOLLA.

Rome, Aug. 17.—Cardinal Rampolla, who is looked upon generally as the most prominent candidate for the Holy See in the event of the death of Pius X., reached his sixtieth birthday anniversary to day. The sentiment favorable to the Rampolla candidacy is not without basis, to the famous cardinal, but is in part due to a feeling that circumstances on the political side of Vatican interests demand at this time a sort of Rampolla's experience and abilities.

Cardinal Rampolla is an Italian by birth and education. He was proclaimed cardinal in 1887, and a few months later was named secretary of state, in which important position he soon established his reputation as one of the leading diplomats of the world. He has lived a retired life since the death of his former chief, Pope Leo XIII., being head priest of St. Peter's.

MANY REUNIONS OF VETERANS.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The annual encampment of the National G. A. R. to be held in Rochester the coming week will be notable for the record-breaking number of regimental and brigade reunions to be held in conjunction therewith. The unusually large number of reunions is due chiefly to the fact that the present year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the war. In addition to the G. A. R. the organizations of national scope that will meet during the week will include the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Daughters of Veterans, Sons of Veterans, Army Nurses, Army and Navy Union, Army and Navy Auxiliary, Union Veteran Union, Woman's Veteran Relief Union, Ex-Prisoners of War, Naval Veterans and Andersonville Survivors.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement:

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."

Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

IN LONDON TOWN

S. W. Nichols Writes of the Great English Metropolis.

Dear Journal:

The great city of London is passing through what our favored land has been experiencing, a hot wave, and the good Britishers hardly know how to stand it, for they are not accustomed to such weather and to add to the bad condition of affairs, it has been very dry and the fields are parched and brown, so that the outlook for the tenant farmers of the tight little island is anything but favorable.

With her usual slow gait the city is not yet nearly over the great event—the coronation—which took place over a month ago. A lot of the bleachers erected along the streets over which the procession passed are not yet removed and even in historic Westminster Abbey the temporary timbers placed there for the event are not all taken out, but possibly if we took things a bit more leisurely in our own land it would be as well for us, only I can't help thinking how very different it would have been had the event taken place in Chicago. And then to think of paying ten dollars to sit on one of those temporary benches of rough boards for the sake of seeing the procession go by.

One frugal crowd made a bad mistake though, for they climbed to the top of a building and as the king and queen rode in a covered rig, the high perchers failed to get a sight of royalty at all. It is very pleasant though to see the king and his family so much beloved by the people in general for as Gladstone remarked, the country cannot afford to forego the advantages arising from the splendor of the royal personages around whom the people rally and whom they regard as a bond to unite the masses in common cause.

Although the present king's father was wild when young he settled down entirely in his older years and won the genuine respect of his people of all classes and while the position is not a great deal more than that of a figure head, still the character of the reigning sovereign is a matter of much importance. It is said that at one time the families of the grandfather of the present emperor of Germany and of Queen Victoria were the only royal families in Europe free from scandal.

The present king is not an essentially strong character, but on the other hand he has no opportunity to display any special characteristics in that line. An anecdote well illustrates that fact. A measure had once been passed by parliament, and Gladstone took it to Queen Victoria to have her sign it, but it was not wholly to her liking and she hesitated.

"But, you must sign it," said the great statesman rather peremptorily as she held the document in her hand.

"Do you know who I am, sir? I am the Queen of England," said her majesty, haughtily.

"And does your majesty know who I am? I am the people of England," was Gladstone's reply, and the bill was signed.

The conduct of the king and indeed of the whole royal family has been such as to win the esteem and respect of the people and they all speak kindly of them. I have talked with a good many in various walks of life and the sentiment is well nigh universal. First they have a reverent regard for his father and always speak of him with respect and the son seems to have inherited the same regard of the people.

Of course a royal family is unavoidably in the line light and their every day life is known to the world to a great extent. The king is a domestic man and though he goes to his clubs at times he is not dissipated by any means and when late hours or anything undesirable is proposed he never pretends to go home. He is fond of riding about and is frequently seen taking the fresh air in the parks and prominent drives about the palace or other suitable places. The queen is also a domestic woman and takes great pride in her children whom she tries to rear in a sensible manner. She loves to get out her work basket in the evening and spend the hours quietly with her family and she gives the product of her needle to good causes and thereby gains the love of many of her subjects and when the Maries of the realm were invited to contribute to her fund there was a generous response.

The children are reared with devotion to their parents and after the ceremony of the coronation was over and the members of the royal family advanced to congratulate the king and pay their respects the Prince of Wales came up and instead of receiving him formally as was expected, the fond father took the great big boy in his arms and kissed him fervently, and it is said the sight was decidedly affecting. Of course, the princes and princesses must have private tutors for they can't go to public school, but they have much that is entertaining to children of their age and know how to enjoy it, so that on the whole the royal family of England is a subject pleasant to contemplate.

I wish some how we could get some pointers from our English cousins in the matter of street improvements. Nearly all the principal streets of this great city are paved, either with wood blocks or asphalt and while I have traveled miles over them I have not seen a break and they certainly have to endure no little use. One man who seemed to know, said the blocks were treated to tar and they do smell a bit like it, and surely they are desirable material if cost and durability are right, for they are not so slippery as asphalt in wet weather and they are almost noiseless.

The asphalt put down is indeed to see with what kind of a genius well done. To day I saw some men making a hole in the street near Westminster Abbey and fell into conversation with them and asked them what was the object and the foreman said they were after a leaky gas pipe and were making a hole in the pavement about twenty inches by thirty and it was almost like going through rock. The foreman took a pointed iron spike, twenty inches long and an inch and a half square at the top end, and made of the hardest steel. He held it till one man with a sledge got it started and then three of them each following the other, pounded that spoke for some time making a start in the street pavement.

They have a novel plan for discovering a leak in a gas pipe. The work man is provided with a contrivance about five inches long and three in diameter and made of metal and containing some kind of delicate mechanism with a disc and clocklike hand at one end and an opening at the other. He opens the stop box pipe in the edge of the work, opens the lower end of his testing machine and places it on the top of the pipe and a movement of the little hand around the disc will disclose the presence of a leak.

London surely is a place fed from all over the world. Flour and meal are little more than with us, while some other things are frightfully dear. Meat goes from 26 cents a pound down to ten, while dressed chickens are dear, one no larger than a good sized fry bringing 75 cents. Best fresh salmon are 42 cents a pound, though some other kinds of fish are cheaper. A dealer told me that now they were getting dressed poultry in large quantities from Russia, while Canada, the United States, Australia, New Zealand and even far away Japan send here large amounts of frozen chickens and ducks.

One day I saw a curious crowd at one side of the street and going to investigate saw a boy and his father with a donkey which was being treated to all sorts of consideration. The people were giving him sugar and cakes and he was enjoying it amazingly and occasionally he would rub his nose against the face of the man who seemed to enjoy it. The creature was adorned with a bridle galley decked with ribbons, rosettes and flowers and seemed proud of his apparel and as I watched him, I couldn't help thinking of his fellows in Spain and Italy bearing all sorts of burdens till their backs are sore and they are utterly worn out.

The advocates of woman suffrage are still busy and seem to think their old style tactics will win. One day I saw one of them standing on the walk with a huge poster about her skirt and bearing the words: "WHAT DOES A MAN DO TO SUPPORT HIS WIFE?"

She was urging her literature on every one who would accept it and making all the fuss possible, though they are getting to be somewhat of an old story by this time.

The daily papers of London are in a class to themselves and it is hard to get accustomed to them. The first and last pages are covered with advertisements, often wants ads, and the whole paper is ponderous and heavy. One day with another there is more world wide news on the first page of the Jacksonville Journal than in a twenty page edition of the London Daily Telegraph, which is now the leading paper of the city, the Times having taken a back seat some time since. I do not mean that the Journal gives as much space to telegraphic news as the great London paper, but I do claim that it has items from far more sources.

For instance, the Moroccan question is prominent and perhaps more will be a column or two from that quarter and a few items, much strung out, from other parts of the world, but for a general survey of the world's news you have to go to American papers. I have also bought a number of the Paris edition of the New York Herald and it is simply this.

Speaking of London papers reminds me of a story told me by my landlord, who is a splendid specimen of the true English gentleman without a title. He says an ink manufacturer named Levi, a Jew, decided that he would like to try his hand at running a newspaper and bought the Telegraph, which was then an insignificant affair. He had reckoned without his host, however, not knowing just what it would cost to run a paper and one day found him unable to satisfy his men and blank ruin stared him in the face. He went to a man whom he knew and telling his story begged the loan of sixty pounds, about three hundred dollars and the man, possibly being hard hearted and taking advantage of the situation, said he would comply on condition that a column of the paper was his in perpetuity.

The terms were drastic, but beggars can't be choosers and Mr. Levi had to agree and now my host says the income from that column is worth fifty thousand dollars a year and he showed me how it is. It is used for want ads, each occupying about three lines at forty line ads, cents issue and as the type is small and the columns long, it will be seen how fast the income counts up. The paper went ahead to success and the son of the enterprising ink manufacturer is a peer and is known as Lord So & So and would probably be mortally insulted if any one asked him the price of ink.

It was the Telegraph that brought and helped make famous the late Archibald Forbes, so successful war correspondent. While he was unknown, he prepared a story and submitted it to the editor of the paper and the man of the pencil was quick he was dealing, so he said:

"Is that your stuff?"

"It is, sir," replied the young man rather anxious to see what kind of a reception he would get.

"Well, we'll take all that kind of stuff you will send us," and the world knows the rest.

The courts of England, from the highest to the lowest are a study. There is small attention paid to pettifoggery and one would almost be ready to say that the accused did not receive the benefit of the doubt in many cases. A noted case is now before the court of appeals and is that of a man who had induced a client to invest something over $250,000 in almost worthless securities and the administratrix of the estate of the investor had brought suit and received judgment. The defendant urged that the stocks or securities were not wholly worthless and the appeal is now before a bench of three Lord Justices.

I cannot give the Journal readers anything much more interesting than a report of some of the cases in the magistrates' courts. There are one in which Gordon Killick is charged with being drunk while driving a motorcycle and Leslie Killick with being drunk at the same time and place. At frequent intervals along the middle of the crowded streets of the great city are what are known as refuges places about a rod long, pointed at the ends and four feet wide in the middle, a lamp pole generally in the center and the whole raised six inches from the surface and are intended to be used as refuges by persons in the act of getting across the street on foot and unable to do so.

The charge was that Gordon drove a motorcycle very fast at 12:30 a. m. on the wrong side of one of these and his brother was in a side car attached. The prisoners pleaded guilty to the driving, saying the vehicle was only a small one, not as big as a motor car, and they had the machine under control and drove on the wrong side by mistake and not intentionally.

The magistrate replied that they were drunk at the time and his rule was to send the accused to prison under such circumstances as a deterrent. He had so treated motor car drivers, though there was more excuse for them, as they were often treated to drink by silly people. He regretted the necessity, but would give Gordon 21 days and Leslie a fine of ten shillings.

The attorney for the young men pleaded with the court that it was the first offense, that the young men had hitherto borne good reputation, that they had ridden a good way and had taken a drink of some thing to which they were unaccustomed and were not at all in an advanced stage of inebriation, as they were able to proceed all right after two hours detention. The imprisonment would cost Gordon his situation and he begged for clemency.

The magistrate replied that he had taken every fact into careful consideration and felt the public safety called for such a verdict. These vehicles were dangerous enough when in the hands of sober drivers and very seriously so when in the hands of intoxicated persons. He had been astonished on looking up the statistics to see the harm done by motorcycles at best and he could not alter the verdict in the case.

A driver was accused of unmercifully beating a horse with a knotted whip when the animal was doing its best with a heavy load. The whip was produced and the magistrate said he was sorry he was unable to send the man to prison without permitting him to pay a fine, but as it was he would assess him about $19 (in our money) and order the whip destroyed.

One of the most interesting was that of a farmer who was accused of selling to Mr. Walker milk that was deficient of the 12 per cent of its original fat.

Defendant said the milk was sent just as drawn from the cows, but that it was taken from them on Sunday, when the hour for milking was two hours later than usual and consequently the animal absorbed some of the fat.

He was reminded that the milk contained over 88 per cent of water. Defendant indignantly denied that there was any in the milk whatever.

The attorney, "No water, it may be, but there is always about 88 per cent of water in milk."

Defendant—"I did not know that before."

Attorney—"How long have you been a farmer?"

Defendant—"All my life."

Attorney—"We all live and learn."

The defendant said the inspection was made eighteen hours after the milk had been taken from the cows and naturally the cream would be separated from the milk.

The inspector said he had thoroughly stirred the milk and creamp before making the test.

The defendant said he was innocent and would appeal.

The magistrate—"You can only appeal if I raise the fine to $12. Shall I do so?"

"No, thank you."

Some times we think that our state and national legislators get rather personal and that party strife is exceptionally bitter with us, but I think the English can yet give us some pointers on that subject. The old lines or two special parties used to be Liberal and Conservative, but when Gladstone undertook to make home rule for Ireland a plank in the Liberal party platform there were members of that organization who were not willing to go with him and so they went over to the other side and the combination called themselves Unionists, while the Liberals continued along the same lines as before and are now in power, but have not yet accomplished home rule. The expenses of the country are, of course, very great with the standing army and all else to be taken into account, while royalty is an expensive ornament. I think the mother of the present king has a salary or pension of some $350,000 to sustain herself during her natural life.

The party in power supplies the prime minister who largely answers to our president in some ways, though not in all, for he is rather more legislative than executive. A speaker or chairman is chosen for the house of commons, which is elected, while the senate or house of lords is composed of men on whom the peerage has been specially conferred or who have inherited it from the fathers. The burning questions now before the country is the matter of revenue and it is arousing all sorts of acrimony and the affectionate manner in which members caress one another with orange juice is truly remarkable.

When parliament convenes, which is a quarter before three in the afternoon, naturally there is a great rush for seats, as people like to get to the spectators' gallery. I called at the office of our ambassador and was received most politely by his secretary, who informed me that Mr. Reid had but two tickets at his disposal and these were spoken for several weeks ahead and my only show would be to wait a month or so until some one happened to change his mind and not go, in which case he would gladly call me up at my hotel, but he has not done so, though I left him my address. He suggested that possibly I might get hold of some good natured member and work in that way, so I went to the great building by the Thames and was politely informed by the police that there was no admission, but on being told that I wanted to speak to a member, I was admitted to the next hall and the same reason let me to another and finally to the entrance of the members.

On the suggestion of my landlord I selected the name of a member, the Hon. William O'Malley, and duly sent in my card and awaited the answer with much anxiety. In a few minutes I heard my name called and a very pleasant gentleman appeared and said he was the individual to whom I had sent my name and asked what he could do for me. I told him I would like wonderfully well to send home to my friends in the United States an account in the doing in the members' request most kindly, but said he had sent away his own son who had an American friend with him and it would be useless to try to get me in. He shook hands with me, said he was glad to meet me and politely bowed himself back into the room where the laws are made, so I must depend on second hand information, but I will give a little of what I have gleaned and it is reliable.

The prime minister has a special seat and the members have only long benches which they occupy and no such pleasant surroundings and furniture as are supplied our members of congress. The first thing on the docket is the answering of a lot of questions which have been handed the prime minister, some desiring honest information and others intended to nag the government, and the head of the party, Mr. Asquith, is supposed to answer all it sees fit, while he does sometimes and sometimes not.

The burning question now is of revenue and the bill prepared is a new departure, the Liberals claiming the rich have heretofore escaped too much and it lays heavier burdens on them in the way of land and income tax. For instance, a man has an income of $800 is exempt and on all over that he is taxed about 6 per cent. The Unionists denounce the bill most loudly, declaring it to be a demagogic measure intended to carry favor with the masses, while the Liberals say it is something which should have been done long ago. Naturally it will meet defeat in the house of lords, even if it gets through the lower branch and now it is proposed to persuade the king to create enough new peers who will vote for the measure. This has been done in the history of the country, but it is a dernier resort and so the bitterness is stirred constantly.

Here is a glimpse at the way things are done in this august body, which we have always regarded among the most solemn and sedate on earth. The speaker takes his seat on the woolsack, which means his chair, and a herald announces the fact and the house is supposed to come to order. The prime minister appears and is greeted with loud cheers by his side of the house. Then a member asks him if he has given any pledge that home rule would be carried in this parliament.

Mr. Asquith—"The only pledges I have given on this subject are to the four in my public declarations."

(Loud ministerial cheers.)

Capt. Craig—"May I ask whether the right honorable gentleman is aware that Ulsters is not going to have any form of home rule at all?"

(Opposition cheers and ministerial and national laughter.)

Lord Hugh Cecil rose to ask a supplementary question when he was received with a great scene of uproar and cries of "Vide," "Vide," which was continued for fully five minutes.

Mr. Hardie appeared on the floor in his Indian dress and was loudly cheered on both sides.

Lord Hugh Cecil stood in dramatic attitude looking sternly at the ministerialists.

The speaker—"Will the noble lord put his question?" (Laughter.)

There were farther cries of "Vide," during which Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, came in and he was greeted with opposition cheers and radical laughter.

At last order was restored and the prime minister was beset with a number of questions and finally a member said:

"When the cabinet makes up its mind regarding home rule will the fact be communicated to the house before it is given to the press?"

(Opposition laughter and cheers.)

Mr. Asquith—"That is an insolent question."

Lord Hugh Cecil (shouting)—of order amid a further scene of uproar.

After several attempts to speak the noble lord was heard to ask if the word insolent was in order.

Mr. Harcourt—"Is the word traitor in order?" (The day before the prime minister had used that term toward some of the opposition.)

(Ministerial cheers.)

The speaker—"Neither words are in order." (Cheers and counter cheers from both sides.)

Lord Hugh Cecil (shouting)—"Will the prime minister withdraw?"

The speaker—"The noble lord is the last one who should complain." (Loud ministerial cheers.)

Mr. Gwynne asked whether the observation "beastly swine," made by the member for Stoke on Trent was parliamentary language.

(Laughter.)

The speaker then made an earnest appeal to the members to refrain from indulging in personalities. He remarked that they did not always reach him and while there was a great temptation to cross fire between the two sides of the house, he begged the members not to do so, for it was hard for him to hear all that was thus said and adjudicate at the time upon the offending word.

Mr. Gwynne—"Will you ask him to withdraw?"

Several Irish members—"When you withdraw the word traitor."

The foregoing is part of a verbatim report not in the least garbled or misrepresented.

A day later the prime minister tried for nearly half an hour to read a statement and was absolutely howled down and had to give it up. On the other hand, a day or two later the prime minister was asked what would be the course of the government in the Morocco situation. Mr. Asquith replied with a very temperate and satisfactory speech, saying that the honor of the nation would be fully conserved and at the same time every possible effort would be put forth to keep all relations with foreign countries amicable without compromising the honor and dignity of Great Britain and for the opposition Mr. Balfour said that while they might be divided by party measures at home, the world must understand that the whole kingdom would be a unit and stand by the government in case of difficulty abroad.

LAURIER IN QUEBEC.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened his Quebec campaign to day at Three Rivers, where he addressed a great demonstration of Liberals. Tomorrow he will go to the city of Quebec, returning thence to Montreal. The premier attaches much importance to the campaign in this province, owing to the wide prevalence here of the Nationalist sentiment, which is regarded as one of the most disturbing element with which the Liberals have to cope in the present fight.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Fore-runner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpelide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpelide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

Grain Letter.
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 17.—Wheat—Wheat was dull through most of the session developing some strength and a livelier action toward the close. News developments were few. Most advices were rehashed of news several days old. Export sales were fairly liberal at 591,000 bushels wheat and flour. The strike situation abroad is handicapping the export trade, but the market exhibits a good deal of firmness and we still feel that conservative purchases of December wheat made on safe spots will be profitable.

Corn—Corn advanced slightly in sympathy with wheat. Local bulls gave the market a good deal of help, but found rather liberal commission houses selling on the advance. Weather conditions are highly favorable for the new crop and reports indicate marked improvement. Country offerings for December shipment are increasing, but the market is under little pressure, as local buyers are not disposed to take hold freely. With good weather and an increased run of old corn may be expected and unless the market is well supported higher prices temporarily are likely to result. On any sharp break of several cents we believe May corn would in the long run prove profitable investment.

Oats—Oats have shown considerable strength. Larger local traders have been good buyers. The narrowing discount for cash grain as compared with September invites investment in futures. The fact that barley and other oats substitutes are selling at extremely high prices, barley being well over $1 a bushel, makes oats look cheap. We believe December oats are a good investment on any little dip.

Provisions—Dull and somewhat neglected. An easier market early found a good demand from shorts and a few local bulls. Generally speaking with the possible exception of lard, January prices are high enough to invite the seller.

Sample market—Wheat, firm; No. 2, hard, 1/2 cent under; Sept. 1/2, 1/2 cent under; 2c over. Only extremely high grade bringing the top figure. Corn unchanged from yesterday. Offerings lighter. General demand better. Late prices were 1/2 higher. Oats, steady to 1/2 higher; offerings moderate, better demand from shippers.
